What is Logos

Logos University is a non-resident school of theology and ministry. Recognizing that it is not practical for all who are called to ministry to pack up their families and leave their homes or places of ministry to pack up their families and leave their homes or places of ministry to attend a conventional “brick and mortar” school, Logos University brings quality, affordable and accessible ministry and theological training where students live and work.

A true pioneer in this environment, we have been equipping men and women for ministry vocations through distance education since 1977. Our students and graduates are successfully and faithfully serving the Lord all over the world.

Logos University offers degree programs in Applied Theology, Biblical Studies, Christian Counseling, Christian Education, Christian Leadership and Management, Divinity, Theological Studies, and Theology. All of our graduate degree programs are custom-made with the student’s needs and interests in mind. We recognize that most students do not fit into a “cookie cutter” academic program so we take great pains to provide our students with the courses that will best prepare them for what the Lord has called them to do. Degree programs are custom-made for students in urban, suburban, rural and international environments. All of our programs are offered from the Associates to the Doctoral level.

Our concept of distance education, which was once considered impractical, has now been adopted by leading institutions of higher education as a standard for training for ministry and non-ministry preparation.

Our leadership, faculty, staff are not disconnected from the pulpit or local church pressures of this modern world. Our faculty is endowed with a vast treasure of ministry experience and strong academic credentials. Ministry professionals with advanced degrees are endorsed in their major of concentration to offer mentorship to our students.

Logos University provides a unique opportunity for students to prepare themselves academically, professionally, and spiritually to serve God in the ministry and professions to which they have been called. As an independent, educational ministry that is thoroughly Biblical in its philosophy of education, Logos University is a servant to both the local church and the individual student; providing curriculum, consultation, and direction for the pursuit of his/her educational goals.

Our Statement of Faith reflects the solidarity and unity of the broad spectrum of Christian ministry in our world. We wholly endorse the authority and autonomy of the local church and therefore, will not interfere with the local church’s life, its discipline, or its doctrinal emphasis.

History of Logos University

Logos University was birthed out of a visionary mandate to serve the body of Christ through an educational partnership with the local church. With more than 37 years of service, this mandate continues to be our clarion call. Through the merger of several small Bible Schools and institutes dating back as far as 1977, we are today an international Christian educational ministry with students representing dozens of countries. From a simple distance education school offering certificate programs, Logos University entered a new phase in upgrading the standards, policies, and degrees under the leadership of Dr. Charles Travis when he became president in 1994. Logos University took on a decidedly international scope as he partnered with ministry leaders all over the world. His passion for equipping the Body of Christ has featured prominently in making an impact in over 26 countries. Logos University restructured to the University model in holds now in April 2014, thereby offering our students a richer variety of programs and better qualified faculty in the majors we offer.

Many other Christian leaders across America have made substantial contributions to the life and growth of Logos University. For their selfless and visionary investment, we are eternally grateful. The current administration and faculty are ever conscious of the deep responsibility that has been passed on to us. To all who have gone before and to those who follow, we express our gratitude.

Statement of Faith

The Apostles Creed most clearly defines the statement of faith the vast majority of the Church has embrace over the centuries. We recognize that different denominations and fellowships have denominational nuances and distinctives, but on this we agree: We believe:

In God, the Father almighty, creator of heaven and earth.

In Jesus Christ, his only Son our Lord:

conceived by the Holy Spirit,

born of the Virgin Mary,

suffered under Pontius Pilate,

was crucified, died, and was buried;

He descended to the dead.

On the third day, He rose again;

He ascended into heaven,

He is seated at the right hand of the Father,

And He will come to judge the living and the dead.

In the Holy Spirit,

The holy catholic (universal) Church,

The communion of saints,

The forgiveness of sins,

The resurrection of the body,

And the life everlasting.

Philosophy of Education

Our degree programs are designed to be practical as well as academic, preparing people for ministry and service in the fulfillment of their call. In line with the goals and philosophy expressed, Logos University continues to attain higher levels of both academic and institutional recognition; however, our primary goal is a Christian education that builds a solid foundation in the life of the student for both secular and ecclesiastical service.

To this end, Logos University is committed to:

- Offering Bible-based programs that increase the student's knowledge of Biblical truths.
- Providing quality theological instruction.
- Affordable tuition rates within the reach of the average student
- Creating custom designed ministry degree programs of study designed to address the needs, and interests of the individual minister and leader.
- Preparing students for ministry vocations and equipping laypeople for leadership within the local church and community.

Accreditation, Authorization, and Recognition

Logos University is authorized by The Florida State Board of Independent Colleges and Universities to grant degrees and continues as a registered degree-granting institution with the Florida Department of Education Commission for Independent Education (CIE).

Logos University is peer accredited through the Association of Christian Schools International and the International Association of Bible Colleges and Seminaries. Peer accreditation is a recognition of standards, policies, and programs of like-minded institutions free of government involvement. These organizations are dedicated to creating and offering quality theological education. It is important to consider that: the degree programs of this college are designed solely for religious vocations.

LOGOS University equips students for ministry. The advantages and disadvantages of enrolling in a regionally or nationally accredited institution must be considered by every student on the basis of what their ministry goals are.

If the program completion date is approaching, a student may apply for a Program Deadline Extension if 75% of coursework is completed prior to the initial deadline. Application must be submitted a minimum of 30 days before the deadline. The University will determine the length of the extension. Failure to apply for the extension will result in the program being deactivated. There are no other extensions available or allowed. A form for this purpose is available on the website.

Guidelines for Master's Thesis and Doctoral Dissertations

•Difference between a Masters Thesis and a Doctoral Dissertation

Masters' theses and Doctoral dissertations are formal written documents that result from carefully organized research that is closely supervised under the direction and advice of responsible academic personnel. The difference between the two is the extent to which the research was performed and the originality of the document. Both documents must clearly demonstrate the student's ability to perform research at an advanced level; however, it is the expectation of this institution that the Doctoral Dissertation will be of higher quality as it relates to its contribution to the student's field of study. An excellent source to aid you in writing a dissertation may be found at <http://www.dissertationhelp.net/index.html>.

•What a Thesis/Dissertation is about.

A Thesis/Dissertation is a formal writing whose sole purpose is to prove that you have made an original contribution to knowledge. To this end, it must show:

- That you have identified a worthwhile problem or question within your particular field of study.
- That you have reasonably solved the problem or answered the question asked.

Because the purpose of the graduate Thesis/Dissertation is to prove that you have made an original and useful contribution to knowledge, the examiners will read your work to find the answers to the following questions:

- Can the thesis/dissertation statement be clearly identified?
- Is it a good statement?
- Has it been answered before?
- Is it a useful statement?
- Did the student convince us that the statement was adequately resolved?
- Does the student's work represent a contribution to knowledge?

•Content and format authority

You may use any recognized authority for the purpose of structuring your thesis. However, such authority must be disclosed along with the thesis/dissertation statement that is to be presented to the school for prior approval. It is helpful to note that the Internet contains ample information and instruction regarding the various elements of a thesis/dissertation.

Unless otherwise excepted, the following elements will be required:

- Cover Sheet – The school will supply the form for the Cover Sheet. (See Appendix)
- Your “thesis statement” and the sources you intend to use for the purpose of formal construction must be forwarded to the school for prior approval. In order to expedite this process, you can do so by phone conversation; however, such conversation must be further supported by the “approval request”. It is important that your thesis statement is not only of development quality but it should not be too broad or too narrow.
- Abstract: (a 250 to 350-word summary of the subject matter of your thesis. The abstract should contain:
 - The research topic
 - The aim of the study
 - The methods used
 - The main results obtained
 - The main sources used

Please write in complete sentences. The abstract is a piece that is developed without the assistance of third party references or quotations. The last sentence of your abstract must be your “thesis statement”.

- Table of contents
- Dissertation Body – The dissertation is the documentation that supports your thesis.
- “Thesis defense, you may be asked to make an oral presentation.
- Bibliography, endnotes, footnotes, exhibits and schedules. (We prefer that you follow the procedures outlined in the MLA Handbook (ISBN 073529758).

•Length and Pagination

- A Master’s Thesis must be at least 80 but not more than 100 pages.
- A Doctoral Dissertation must be at least 120 but not more than 150 pages.
- Ancillary information (index, bibliography, schedules, etc.) should be identified by using lower-case Roman numerals and should not be made a part of the page requirements stated in 1 and 2 above.

Note: The school will assess an additional reading fee if your work materially exceeds the requirements stated in 1 and 2 above.

•Type (12 Point only)

A dependable printer or typewriter is necessary for controlled formatting and clean, sharp impressions. Do not use “script” or “specialty” fonts. “Times New Roman” or “Arial” is preferred.

•Paper – Spacing – Margins

Use 8.5 by 11 inch white paper of reasonable quality. Do not use less than 20 or more than 24 pound weight. Only single-sided copies will be accepted. The general text of the manuscript must be double spaced both within and between paragraphs. All margins must be no larger than one inch.

•Record Retention

Please make a copy of the thesis or dissertation for your records. The one that you submit must be retained in our library. The Thesis/Dissertation becomes the property of LOGOS University and can only be used with permission from us.

•Sequence of submission

- Notify the University of your intent to commence your Dissertation. – A minimum of 1 year from desired date of completion.
- Submit your thesis statement for approval. – One month after approval of topic by the University.
- Submit your abstract for approval. – One month after approval of your thesis statement by the University
- Submit the first 10 pages of your first chapter for approval, along with the table of contents. - 60 days after approval of abstract
- Submit your first draft for approval. – 120 days after approval of the first 10 pages of your first chapter submitted to the University
- Submit your final work for approval and binding. - 45 days prior to Graduation date.

Note: It is your responsibility to edit all work submitted for proper content, grammar, and sentence structure. Your professor is not to be your proofreader.

•Are there any exemptions from writing a Thesis or Dissertation?

Both the Thesis and the Dissertation are essential to maintaining the integrity of your field of study. It is unusual to hold a graduate-level degree without having completed one of these presentations. The only possible exception for not writing a dissertation would be if it were to be replaced with a specialized master or doctoral project. The subject and nature of such a project must have the University's prior approval. The following are some examples of a replacement presentation.

- A contributory work, whether published or unpublished, that has not been used for prior academic credit.
- A “turnkey” manual for developing a special ministry in a specific field of study.
- Special education students.

Note: Approval for this option must be obtained from the Academic Dean.

•Use of research materials regardless of source

Your papers must be properly supported by applicable citations (i.e. footnotes, endnotes, body notes, and bibliographies). Your input must be totally your input – merely rearranging published words will not suffice. It is also important to note that grade deductions will be assessed if your paper is overly quoted. If your writing skills are somewhat less than college quality, please consider the merits of enlisting the service of a benevolent proofreader within your sphere of influence.

We encourage you to use the Internet for research purposes only. It is important to note that any material from this source is to be treated in the same manner as hardcover publications. Direct references must be specifically identified within your footnotes or body notes.

•Plagiarism

If it is determined that a paper contains another author's material and is not identified as such, this may result in either the disqualification of the work or the student's dismissal from the school.
